

Celebrated performance at television studios

What was our client looking for?

Our client, IMG Studios, required external decoration to structural steelwork located at roofline level on this vast three storey building. Open 24/7 every single week of the year, IMG Studios offer studio space, production and broadcasting services to a range of popular television shows. Access arrangements would need to be made so work could be carried out both safely and sympathetically to ensure no interruption to the day to day running of the studios.

How did we help?

It was decided that the use of motorised access platforms would be the safest and most convenient way to perform the redecoration work. Our expert operatives were skilled to operate motorised access around the site, even close to architectural glazing and vehicles. Multiple access platforms were used simultaneously to reduce the programme time.

Steels were thoroughly prepared and washed with a fungicidal treatment prior to the application of Dulux Metalshield. As works progressed, constant communication and co-ordination with IMG Studios took place to make sure there was no obstruction at any point to the entrance and parking areas. Barriers and cordoning were also utilised and adapted daily by the site team to protect staff and visitors.

The results

Providing decoration services at height is a highly specialised job but through effective communication and meticulous site set up, works were carried out safely, conveniently and with zero interference to the day to day running of the studios.

All steelwork, including a complex section under cover to the main entrance is now fully protected for up to eight years, due to our expert workmanship and the expected performance of Dulux Metalshield.
